Polio Outbreak in State Continues

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—A serious outbreak of polio in Arkansas continued last week with five new cases reported, the State Health Department says.

The total number of cases, as of Oct. 31, was 228, compared to only 22 at the same time last year. The disease killed nine persons this year.

The new cases were in Desha, Logan, Ouachita, Gross and St. Francis counties. Dr. A. M. Washburn, director of the Communicable Disease Control Division, said yesterday 218 of the 1959 cases were paralytic, and that 176 of the victims had not taken Salk vaccine.

No Segregation Candidate, Says Faubus

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Gov. Orval E. Faubus said he knows of no segregationists planning to run for positions on the Little Rock School Board, which he labeled integrationist.

Two school board posts will be filled in an election Dec. 1.

The governor commented at a press conference yesterday after reporters queried him on remarks by board member Russell H. Matson Jr. that integration cannot be limited indefinitely to the eight Negroes now attending formerly white high schools.

Faubus said integration "will continue as long as you have integrationists on the school board."

The governor declined to say if he would like to see segregationist candidates oppose board president Everett Tucker Jr. and member B. Frank Mackey in the election.

He said a special session of the Legislature still is possible. Faubus has said he intended to call such a session to deal with industrial financing.

Faubus also said he thought it was fine that the Arkansas Highway Commission said it won't ask for a highway bond issue this year. He would have to call an election on the 21 million dollar issue, but he had said earlier he wouldn't call one unless the commission requested it.

G. B. Hughes, plant clerk, and E. J. Montgomery, pumper, were presented their 30 year service awards. L. B. Kent and A. L. Park, operators at the Midway plant, were presented 15 year awards.

Seven other employees of Sunray Mid-Continent Oil Company were also presented service awards at this time, and 11 others at a dinner in Shreveport on Nov. 4, in recognition of continuous employment with the company.

Presenting the awards was R. B. Chesney, District Manager of Shreveport District Production Department.

Methodists to Hold Ceremony Sunday a.m.

Immediately following the morning worship service Sunday morning, Nov. 8, a ground-breaking ceremony will be held on the site where the new educational building is to be built.

The ceremony will be under the direction of Dr. Robert D. Moore, district superintendent of the Hope District of the Methodist Church.

Dr. Moore will preach at the morning worship service and then conduct the ground-breaking ceremonies. The public is most cordially invited to attend both of these services.

The proposed building will be a two-story structure of approximately 15,000 square feet and is anticipated to cost approximately $168,000 when completed. The firm of Weaver and Hegel were architects for the building and B. W. Edwards is acting as contractor for the work.

The building has been made possible through the financial generosity of the people and friends of the church and the planning of the building has been under the guidance of a building committee composed of Earl O'Neal, chairman, Miss Eliza Broach, secretary, George Buchanan of Longview, Texas, treasurer, Miss L. B. Tooley, George Peck, Albert Graves, James H. Jones, John L. Wilson, and Rufus E. Sorrells.

RESIGNS — Army Capt. Michael O'Rourke, stationed at Fort Sill near Lawton, Okla., who won $106,500 on the TV show "Tic-Tac-Dough" resigned from the Army shortly after denying he had received any help on the show. O'Rourke said if he were to be called before the congressional committee investigating TV shows he would prefer to appear as a civilian or as an Army officer whose resignation had been submitted.

PEACE AWARD — Philip Noel Baker, a British Labor Party member of Parliament who has campaigned vigorously for the world disarmament for more than 30 years, has been awarded the Nobel Prize for Peace in Oslo, Norway. The Norwegian Parliament made the award, worth $42,602, to Noel-Baker without listing a specific reason for his selection.

Asians Are Criticized By Bennett

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Two Asians scheduled to address a state meeting of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People have drawn criticism from Atty. Gen. Bruce Bennett.

The action was taken at a board meeting last night.

Don W. Russell, state director of Rehabilitation Service, told the board the state expects to take possession of the hospital buildings and grounds by Dec. 1. A deed to the real property is expected to be ready for Gov. Orval E. Faubus' formal acceptance in about 15 days, Russell said. Following that, personal property such as equipment will be transferred in a separate deed.

About $300,000 of the interim budget is to be spent in converting wards to rooms, other remodeling and in buying equipment for rehabilitation patients. The rest will go for maintenance and other services. The budget, subject to approval by the Arkansas Legislative Council and Faubus, will run until the end of the current fiscal year, June 30, 1960.

All patients at the hospital have been discharged.

Officers of Russell's 18-man Disability Determination Section, now located in a private building at Little Rock, will be moved to the hospital.

Bennett also said Arkansas has been relatively peaceful the last year and added, "I hope the NAACP meeting won't serve to stir up more trouble."

The attorney general said he thought the U.S. Supreme Court, "has to a large measure, tempered its 'Brown decision' (on segregation) by validating the pupil assignment laws to such an extent that Arkansas and the South should never again see any so-called 'Little Rock incident.'"

He mentioned the Dollarway School integration case, in which a federal appeals court ruled that three Negroes should use the placement laws in seeking to enter the school near Pine Bluff.

Dr. Whitlow to Speak Here Monday p.m.

Dr. S. A. Whitlow, former pastor of First Baptist Church and now executive secretary of the Arkansas Baptist Convention, will be guest speaker at the Brotherhood meeting of the church here at 6:30 p.m. Monday.

Dr. Whitlow is expected to talk on the November Stewardship campaign now underway in the local church and the forward program of finance being used by many Baptist churches in Arkansas. A large crowd is expected.

The Brotherhood organization is sponsoring "Punk the Pews" Night at the Sunday evening service when Dr. McClellan will preside, bringing the second of a series of revival sermons. The public is invited.

The church last Sunday adopted a $95,000 budget which carries with it a building fund for the construction of a new educational building at Third and Main Sts.

Mrs. Buchanan Dies Thursday at Houston, Texas

The body will be returned here for burial with Burdett-Cornelius in charge of arrangements.

Educational Board Budget Is $341,925

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The state Board of Education has adopted an interim $341,925 budget to convert the Army-Navy Hospital at Hot Springs into a regional vocational center.

The action was taken at a board meeting last night.

Don W. Russell, state director of Rehabilitation Service, told the board the state expects to take possession of the hospital buildings and grounds by Dec. 1. A deed to the real property is expected to be ready for Gov. Orval E. Faubus' formal acceptance in about 15 days, Russell said. The school board used an Arkansas pupil placement law approved by Faubus to keep desegregation to a minimum when it closed the public high schools for the fall term. More than 50 Negroes were denied admittance to once-white schools.

Faubus said he thought it was ironic "that they are using my placement law to try to control integration."

Faubus said he was not working on any measure to "try to stop integration" because this problem belongs to the people.

He said integration problems were only beginning.

Says Integration Piecemeal Will Wreck Schools

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Gov. Orval E. Faubus said today that piecemeal integration would wreck the Little Rock public school system as much as sudden and total desegregation.

His remark at a news conference was prompted by a recent statement of a school board member, who predicted expansion of integration.

Russell Matson Jr., one of six moderates on the board which has assigned eight Negroes to once-white Central and Hall High Schools, foresaw a steady increase in racial mixing to comply with a federal court mandate. All 12 grades in Little Rock schools must be integrated by 1963 under this program.

Faubus said that when integration began in 1957, "many people had the idea that Little Rock was going to set a pattern one way or another."

Nine Negroes tried to enter Central High in the fall of that year. Faubus surrounded the school with state guardsmen who barred the Negroes. A mob rioted later when the nine got in and President Eisenhower sent federal troops to enforce integration.

Faubus said his critics at that time were "the ones who raised hell about Griffin (former Gov. Marvin Griffin of Georgia) coming into Little Rock. Now these people are going from Little Rock into other states and telling them how to handle their problem."

The governor referred to a Little Rock visit by Griffin a few days before the Central High crisis exploded. Griffin urged resistance to any racial mixing in a talk at a segregationist rally here.

Faubus also referred to speeches in Georgia by Everett Tucker Jr., president of the Little Rock School Board, and Boyd Riddleway, executive secretary of the Little Rock Chamber of Commerce. In addresses at Athens and Atlanta this week, the two men urged Georgians to fight for control of school affairs by local forces. In effect they viewed integration as inevitable.

"They said complete and total integration, coming now, would wreck the school system," Faubus said. "Well, as information we could get throughout the nation indicates they are right about that."

He said he could not reconcile statements that sudden and wholesale integration would wreck the public school system with any program for attaining complete desegregation on a long-range basis.

Won't it have the same result?" he said.

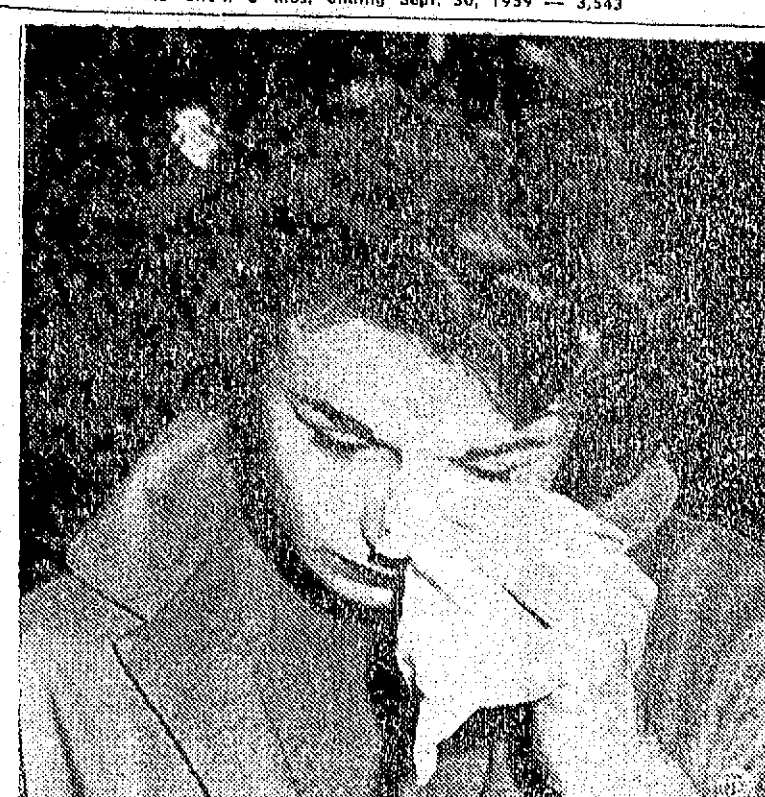

The school board used an Arkansas pupil placement law approved by Faubus to keep desegregation to a minimum when it closed the public high schools for the fall term. More than 50 Negroes were denied admittance to once-white schools.

Strike Idles Newspapers at Boston

BOSTON (AP)—Publication of Boston's six daily newspapers was suspended today, shut down by a strike their 1,150 printers called Thursday night in a contract dispute.

The strike began immediately after the printers voted 561-511 to reject the publishers' offer to arbitrate two of the unresolved issues, a pay raise offer and a demand by the printers for three days leave with pay on the death of a member of their immediate families.

The printers, members of the International Typographical Union, shut down a following proposal to delay the start of the strike on Nov. 12 — a suggestion of Gov. Foster Porello who has met all day with representatives of the publishers and the union.

Neither the union nor the publishers have disclosed the exact terms of the union wage demands.

However, the publishers' spokesman, Eugene P. Barnes, said the newspapers had offered the printers a pay raise of 9 cents an hour plus 15 cents per shift payable to welfare and retirement funds, retroactive to Jan. 1. The publishers' pay offer also proposed another 7.25 cents an hour, and 5 cents more to the welfare and retirement funds effective next Jan. 1.

The present printers' scale is $119.40, plus $4.50 weekly to the welfare and retirement fund.

Suspension of the six papers affected 5,500 persons employed by the papers. It is the second strike in 27 months. The previous shutdown lasted three weeks in August, 1957, when the makers struck for a wage increase.

Arkansas' First Freeze Sends Mercury to 11

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The coolest weather of the season spread across the interior of the nation today on the heels of the big Midwestern snow storm.

The freezing zone extended from Utah and Idaho on the west to Michigan and Indiana on the east and reached as far south as Texas and Arkansas.

The mercury climbed to 19 in Memphis, Tenn., 19 in Lexington, S.D., and 7 in Bismarck, N.D.

The snow ended in most of the Midwest, but still fell in Michigan. Rain in Michigan's Upper Peninsula had 16 inches. Escambia, Mich., had 4 1/2 inches during the night.

Blowing snow and icy roads made travel hazardous in some areas.

The wave of cold moved eastward toward the Atlantic Coast and a gradual warming trend began in the West.

Lows in Arkansas' first wintry weather of the season ranged down to 11 degrees at Devil's Knob in Johnson County early today.

The highest early morning readings were 20 degrees at Walnut Ridge and Newport.

Snow flurries were reported in some sections in the northwest part of the state last night. There were traces of rain in other parts.

Skier today were mostly clear and sunny.

A cold front moving east from the Rocky Mountains yesterday sent temperatures to below freezing levels.

Besides the Devil's Knob reading, other lows this morning included 17 at Fayetteville and 19 at Mountain Home.

Yesterday's highest temperature was 64 degrees at El Dorado.

The season's coldest weather and biggest snow storm gave a wintry touch to the nation's midsection today but it appeared the worst was just about over.

Below zero temperatures and snow up to 15 inches made it feel and look like mid-winter in some northern border areas.

The effects of the storm were felt as far south as the middle Gulf region and southern Texas. Areas in extreme northern Arkansas reported snow flurries.

Northern Wisconsin and Upper Michigan bore the brunt of the snow barrage Thursday and during the night. Fifteen inches of snow covered the ground at Marquette, Mich., on Lake Superior, with nearly a foot at Wausau, Wis.

But the storm appeared losing its punch as it moved eastward, with snow diminishing.

The storm was blamed for at least seven deaths, most of them in traffic accidents.

President Is Setting Up a Fast Pace

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower, pushing 70 and with only 14 months to go in the White House, is heading for what may be the busiest period of his presidency. He is setting himself a fast and strenuous pace.

His announcement Wednesday that he will visit nine nations in Europe, Asia and Africa in December is just the beginning. He'll wind up that trip with a three-day Western summit conference in Paris.

It may or may not be of significance that Eisenhower, who has had a heart attack, an intestinal operation, and a minor stroke, made this announcement only after getting a reassuring okay on a weekend medical check-up.

Early next year the President, who was 69 Oct. 14 and will be over 70 when he leaves office Jan. 20, 1961, may have to return overseas for a summit meeting with Premier Nikita Khrushchev. Still on tap after that is the President's promised trip to the Soviet Union.

Also looming ahead of him is the presidential campaign of 1960. Although the Constitution makes this second term his last one, he will probably campaign to get a Republican elected his successor.

But these activities are all extras. In between times he has a full-time job in his regular job in the Presidency: keeping the country running. This is the grinding part of his task.

Between now and the time he leaves Dec. 4 on his three-continent trip he must put in the final work on the budget, or encyclopedia of expenses, which his administration will offer Congress when it returns in January 1960. This is no simple task, since it involves wading through his own various department and agency heads over how big a piece of the budget pie each is entitled to.

Work on this budget has been going on since last summer. It involves more than just expenses. His 1960 programs—the final act of his presidency—must be based on it: Their size, cost and reach. He has already revealed that his 1961 theme song is in 1959, will be economy.

Further, sandwiched in between any trips he takes next year will be other chores:

1. Working in and approving in detail the programs and messages he will send Congress during the early months of the year.

2. Fighting for them, even to the extent, perhaps, of making TV appeals for public support of his ideas.

On to all this he must add his duties as director and moving force of whatever this country's foreign policy turns out to be.

This was a task he didn't have to worry much about so long as Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, a dominant kind of man, called the shots. Eisenhower from the beginning of his presidency relied tremendously on Dulles.

Eisenhower began to assert himself more in foreign policy after Dulles' death in the spring. He seems likely to continue to do so since Dulles' successor, Christian A. Lister, appears to be a much milder man.

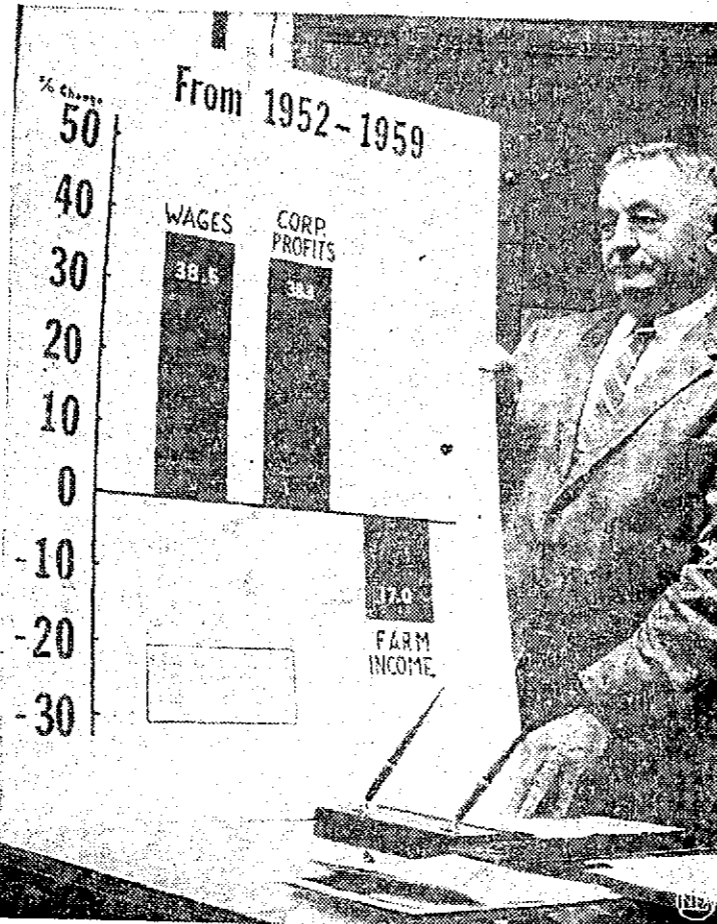

Since 1961 is a big political year, and the Democrats control Congress and will want to establish a record of their own to stand on, Eisenhower may wind up in the toughest political fighting of his eight years.

Since he's winding up his presidency and no doubt wants to end it with the greatest and most memorable success possible, his last budget problems in 1960, especially those involving the military, seem to be the toughest.

Politics—how to get a Republican record that will get voter approval for his party and peace—how to leave the world a quieter place than he found it when he moved into the White House in January 1953.

CHARTING THE FARM PROBLEM—"This is the farm problem," declares Fred V. Holtz, president, Missouri Farmers' Association. Per cent of change in farm income is down 17 per cent in the '52-'59 period. Per cent of wage change is up 38.5 per cent, and corporation profits per cent of change is up 38.5 per cent (after taxes). His solution, as offered at the association's Columbia, Mo., headquarters: a Fair Farm Standards Act. It would assure 100 per cent of parity in the market, by law, for each farmer's fair share of the domestic market. Quotas would be stated in pounds and bushels, rather than acreage.

THE STORY: Sara Volinger is trying to discover the cause of a fire in a warehouse in Belém, Brazil, for an insurance firm. She must do this without allowing the people involved to guess her identity as an investigator.

CHAPTER XVII

Sara wished Manoel would smile. He seemed about to now and then, but he hadn't quite. She wasn't sure today that she liked Manoel. She had been a few days ago. He wasn't comfortable to be with, not as Kim had been.

"Tell me about the sunrise," he said. "It was the kind of look she'd seen when Guaro de Farin asked her to go swimming with him. It wasn't sensual at all, and still it disconcerted her."

"The sunrise was like you," he said finally. "There aren't enough things together to tell how lovely it was." He leaned back in his chair. "It was also very different from you. I hope. In five minutes it was gone."

Sara felt her breath catch in the hollow of her chest. Manoel's words amazed her, his very personal words. She tried to look away from him, but he seemed in the direction he had gone. A young lady seated with a man and woman looked across at her. A young woman with beautiful green eyes and light brown hair, dressed in gold lace.

Guaro returned very pleased with himself. "Have you ever danced the samba, Sara?" He was beaming as he stood leaning close.

"No..." "Come, you can follow me."

Guaro was easy to follow; he went the steps simple. At first, when he began dancing elaborately, she looked to one side to see Senhor Pinto and his daughter dancing close by. Sara put all her attention into keeping up with her partner. He was using Sara, without a doubt, for the woman's green eyes were becoming greener. But Sara was using Guaro even though she didn't like doing so.

"May I meet your friends?" she asked when they sat down again.

"You would not like them." Then he seemed to think better of it. "At first, yes. He led her to the table by the orchestra. Senhor Pinto was a short, thin man with a dab of a mustache, who, Sara guessed, was annoyed at Guaro's return. "The disliking artistia Norte Americana," Senhora Sara Volinger. The words rolled off Guaro's tongue as if they were true.

Sara smiled at each Pinto in turn; the mother looked genuinely pleased at once, and Senhor Pinto melted quickly. Senhora Emilia, however, nodded curtly and, while Sara made conversation with the parents, whispered to Guaro.

"As you may have observed," Guaro said on the way back to their table. "Emilia has a fondness for me."

"And surely you return it?" She was very pretty.

"She is all right." The words were patronizing. "Let us dance." When they returned to Avenida Sao Vicente and the car

The first and the latest—the 1912 and the 1960 Chevrolet. The progress represented here is the result of continuing efforts to make your new Chevrolet always more beautiful, more useful and more valuable in every respect.

You belong to the largest family of owners in the automotive world. We hope you're proud of that. It must give you great satisfaction to know that your judgment in choosing Chevrolet has been confirmed by so many other people.

We know that we can hold your preference and your loyalty only by meeting our responsibilities to you fully and completely from the day you buy your Chevrolet to the day you trade it in. And so we'd like to talk with you about our responsibilities as we see them, and what we are doing to meet them.

Our first responsibility, we think, is clear: To design and build products that satisfy your needs and your wants to the highest possible degree. To that end, we have done these things for 1960:

Made the 1960 Chevrolet more economical, roomier, more quiet and comfortable, easier to handle and maneuver. Introduced the compact and revolutionary Corvair. Produced a new line of Chevrolet trucks with unprecedented advances in efficiency, cargo handling, driver comfort and ability to get a job done.

But it isn't enough to design and build the kinds of products you want. They must be built right. Solidly. Carefully.

Let us assure you of this: Chevrolet's fine reputation as a solid, well-built, dependable product is being safeguarded by more checks and inspections and tests, than ever before.

Arkansas, Texas and SMU Picked as Sat. Winners

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Writer

Texas seeks to hang on to an undefeated, untied record while three other Southwest Conference teams just simply try to hang on in a round of fateful games tomorrow.

Texas meets its nemesis of other years—Baylor—at Austin in the headliner. The Longhorns will be after their eighth victory and will be favored to win it despite the heavy Baylor at crucial times has put on championship and unbeaten hopes in the past.

Baylor already is out of the title race and will only be going for the glory of knocking down an arch enemy.

But Arkansas, Southern Methodist and Rice will be trying to remain in the race. In the case of Arkansas and Rice something will have to give because they meet each other. An Arkansas victory would keep the Razorbacks in close second place and could give them the top rung should Texas be upset.

Rice is barely hanging on and can't afford even a tie.

At College Station, Southern Methodist tackles Texas A&M. It's the last stand of the Methodists. They must win to retain hopes so faint they look non-existent.

Texas Christian, which still is very much in the race and could win it should Texas falter, has the week off. The Christians play the Longhorns next week and that will be the last real big game on the schedule.

Texas Tech, eighth member of the conference, will be in Tucson playing Arizona in intercollegiate game. The Red Raiders aren't competing for the championship but anything they can do against outside opposition helps the league.

It was four out of five last week. Perhaps four out of four with those.

Texas-Baylor—Baylor's in position for an upset but too choice still is Texas and by two touchdowns.

LSU-Vol Game Top Contest For Weekend

By JACK CLARY
Associated Press Sports Writer

Northwestern, which has not played in the Rose Bowl in 11 years, and Wisconsin, which has the Big Ten's only loss in the current Big Ten-Pacific Coast setup, fight it out Saturday for the probable trip to Pasadena.

However this game must share the weekend's top-billing with the battle for the mythical Eastern championship, between Auburn, Syracuse and Penn State, a University Park, Pa.

Thus four members of the current Associated Press top ten have at it while top-ranked Louisiana State will have its hands full with Tennessee and third-ranked Texas tries to improve its position in the Southwest Conference title race and subsequent Cotton Bowl berth against Baylor.

The weekend play begins tonight in Miami's Orange Bowl when North Carolina (3-4) faces Miami (Fla.), which has split six games and whose coach, Andy Gustafson, was hanged in effigy earlier this week.

Northwestern, ranked second with a 6-0 record, faces its biggest obstacle in its run for the title and for its first undefeated season ever and the first in the conference in the last 23 years.

Wisconsin, ranked ninth, has its backs to the Big Ten wall since it lost in conference play to Purdue. But a much-improved pass defense, the overall play of quarterback Dale Hackbart and an iron-clad line are the Badgers' credentials.

The Penn State Syracuse affair is being built up as a 7 to 1 battle — Penn State's quarterback, Richie Lucas with his 919 yards in overall offense against the Orange's "Sizeable Seven," a group of linemen who have helped Syracuse to the top nationally in offense and defense.

LSU, heading for another national title and Sugar Bowl appearance, won't have an easy time with Tennessee (4-1-1). The Vols are a quick aggressive team that could catch the Tigers (7-0) down a bit after their thrilling 7-3 victory last week over previously unbeaten Mississippi.

If Texas (7-0) gets by Baylor (3-3) then it has Texas Christian to look forward to next week. Southern California (4-0, 0) plays Southern Conference members.

Southern Methodist-Texas A&M — SMU has too many guns, one that's big as a cannon—Don Meredith's passing. Southern Methodist by a touchdown.

Arkansas-Rice—About time for Rice to win one but on the basis of ability it looks like Arkansas.

Texas Tech - Arizona — Texas Tech by two touchdowns.

THE LIVING END

THE CONWAY SPECIAL rolls into town shortly before 7 o'clock tonight bringing some 500 or so fans here for the football game between the rugged Wampus Cats and the Hope Bobcats.

School buses will be parked on Main in front of the depot to take students to the stadium. Private cars of Hope citizens will line up on Front and Elm to carry other fans. Hope citizens are asked to take the visitors both to and from the game.

Both cities are reviving an old "special train" custom and apparently are enjoying it. Last year Hope fans rode a special to Conway and were given a royal welcome. Now it's Hope's turn to welcome Conway visitors.

The Wampus Cats are coming to town to beat the Bobcats and this average kicking at the hands of Hope last year. And this "better than average" Conway eleven has a fine chance to do just that because a couple of Bobcat "hosses" are on the nailing list.

Eddie King, speedy halfback, will not see action due to a broken finger. Byron Smiley, starting QB, has been sick all week and even if he plays will be weakened and below par. He may see some action.

Dopsters give Conway the edge but the Bobcats aren't giving anything and will be going out for a win. Regardless of the outcome it promises to be a fine game and there will be plenty of Hope and Conway fans on hand to enjoy themselves.

Broyles Not Interested in Florida Job

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Razorback Coach Frank Broyles dismisses reports that he might be considered for the job of head football coach at the University of Florida as "completely unfounded."

The Tampa, Fla. Tribune said last night that Bob Woodruff will be replaced as head coach at the Florida school at the end of this season.

Sports Editor Bob Hudson's column quoted a source "identified with the board of control" as saying Woodruff could either give up coaching and remain as athletic director, or be relieved of both duties in a house cleaning of the Gator coaching staff.

J. Daniel, chairman of the board of control, would not confirm nor deny the report.

The story listed three coaches as possible replacements for Woodruff: the University of Arkansas' Broyles, Eddie Erdelatz, who resigned as coach at Navy last year, and Hank Foldberg, a Florida assistant coach.

The reason? One of his fingers was stuck in a hole in his desk and it took police and fire rescue workers 15 minutes to free it.

In this episode, Barrymore is featured as Tasunka, an outcast member of an Indian tribe who joins the cattle drive as a hired hand. When hard-riding trail boss Gil Favor, along with his sidekick Rowdy Yates and scout Pete Nolan, try to find water for a thirsty herd, Tasunka leads them to an area inhabited by the hostile Indian tribe, where water can be had. When the Indian renegade attempts to intercede for the white men, he and the cowhands face the threat of death.

Su Baily becomes embroiled in a backstage feud that leads to murder when he is hired by the beautiful Miss Felice to protect her.

Suspicious of several people in Zina's entourage, Baily puts Kookie and Roscoe in the chorus and has the unsuspecting diva hire Suzanne as her secretary.

But on opening night, Baily uncovers a drama that turns into a nightmare of terror as a mad killer makes a backstage appearance.

David Wayne and Thomas Gomez co-star in an original Rod Sterling teleplay, "Escape Clause" the story of a man who makes a pact with the devil on "The Twilight Zone" at 9 on Channel 8.

An unpleasant little hypochondriac, Walter Bedeker (Wayne) makes life miserable for all with whom he comes into contact with his imagined illnesses. Mr. Cad-waller (Gomez) portly, prepping Satan, offers Bedeker a deal: invulnerability to accident, disease or aging — in return for his soul. Bedeker signs the compact and then receives a shocking surprise when he learns the price of his immunity.
